"Simplifying the Complex"

Software Solutions for the Dynamic Enterprise

Excellinet™

"...as companies grew in size and complexity over the past two decades, and as the need for better and faster information increased, the shortcomings of Excel as a BPM (business process management) tool started to outweigh the benefits. For a start, spreadsheet programs don't scale well — they are poor at accommodating lots of different users, and struggle to consolidate data files from many different sources. Issues such as data security and workflow management are equally troublesome." Gartner Group
